Italian Miner Shoots Neighbor War Widow

The community was aroused at an early hour on Tuesday morning to learn of the shooting of Mrs. O. Macdonald at the hand of an Italian miner named James Zatta, a next door neighbor in the Peilett addition.

Zatta was immediately placed under arrest and the victim of the shooting was removed to the Blairmore hospital suffering from a serious wound in the abdomen. Efforts to save her life proved futile and death ended her suffering to night at 8.30.

No reason has been given for the man's rash deed.

Mrs. Macdonald was about 35 years old and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Patton, former Blairmore residents. Her husband was killed in action during the late war leaving her with four small children.

A coroner's jury is being impaneled and an inquest will be conducted tomorrow.

Mine Office Robbed.

Burglars are still active in this district and on Monday night at least three larcenies were committed and the culprits have not yet been captured. The general office of the West Canadian Collieries was entered by some unknown individual, who was evidently not unacquainted with the safe combination, at a late hour on Monday night. The safe lock was successfully manipulated and loose cash to the amount of about $350 together with a number of cheques and victory bonds were extracted. Other larcenies of a minor nature were perpetrated the same night in other parts of the town.

Write It: "His Worship, Lord Mayor McLeod."

Monday's municipal elections resulted in the return of Archie McLeod as mayor; John A. McDonald, W. McVey and "Emperor" Pick as councillors; and A. Hamilton, W. H. Chappell and John McPhail as school trustees. The last named three and Councillor McDonald are re-elected. Following were the returns:

Mayor—Archie McLeod 110, 1. Until 106.

Council—J. A. McDonald 123, W. McVey 121, E. Piccarelli 107, John McAndrew 100, H. Seyon 80, Daniel Walker 85.

Trustees—Allan Hamilton 23, W. H. Chappell 198, John McPhail 176, W. J. Bartlett 158, Rod McDonald 141, O. Legace 126.

The contest was the keenest in the history of the town.

Faithfully your Servant,
ARCHIE MCLEOD,

Still Knocking The Crows' Nest Pass

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Calgary Herald under the caption, "Liquor Squad Busy in Crows' Nest Pass," and is but another evidence of how the papers in the city are inclined to miss no opportunity to give this district a knock. The article below should have no application whatever to this district.

Whirlwind arrests have been made by Detective John Hesketh's squad of provincial police in the Crows' Nest Pass district, after having made a big haul in liquor clean-up in the Drumheller district, last night.

Among those already arrested, to appear before provincial police court at Drumheller on Tuesday, December 14, are: Joe Eror, W. Danavan, T. McGregor, O. Lindquist, J. F. Patterson, G. A. Bates, Jean Jewer, Fannie Banney, Etta Tillman, John Duthieck, Wm. Kirkham, Wm. Ayers and H. E. Brady. The latter two have already been tried before Magistrate A. K. Hobbins and fined $100 and costs each. Detective Hesketh and his squad are still operating in the Drumheller sector.

Ownership of Natural Resources

When the British Crown Colonies of Upper and Lower Canada (or Ontario and Quebec as we know them today) and Nova Scotia and New Brunswick united to form the Dominion of Canada, they were autonomous and enjoyed ownership of their public domain and control over their customs, postal and other services. When they decided to enter the Canadian confederation they agreed to surrender to the Federal authority control and jurisdiction over the Customs, Post Office and certain other public services, but they insisted on retaining ownership and control of the public domain, that is, the lands, forests and mines.

Later, when the Crown Colonies of British Columbia decided to join the confederation it likewise relinquished certain of its powers and services to the Federal body, but retained ownership and control of its public domain and natural resources. It also bargained that certain things should be done, as, for example, that a transcontinental railway should be built connecting British Columbia with the Eastern Provinces.

The construction of this railway across what is now Eastern Canada, but which was then the property of the Hudson Bay Company, led to the purchase by Canada of the lands owned by that Company. In course of time and with increasing settlement it was decided to create the Province of Manitoba out of a portion of this western territory. In entering the Dominion confederation as a Province, Manitoba came in as the creation of the Dominion Parliament, not as a previously established Crown Colony like the other Provinces. It had no Customs or Postal services to relinquish; nor did it enjoy ownership of lands which it could decline to give up. Consequently, in creating Manitoba a Province the Dominion Parliament did not provide that it should be given full ownership and control of its natural resources. The Dominion kept what it had hitherto owned. And when Alberta and Saskatchewan were created Provinces in 1905, the same policy was followed.

Few people question the legal right of the Dominion Parliament to retain ownership of these natural resources, but the practically unanimous opinion of the West is that by so doing Parliament violated the spirit of the Confederation pact and ignored the cardinal principle upon which Confederation rests. The Canadian confederation is supposed to be a union, or federation of Provinces each enjoying equal rights, powers, responsibilities and privileges; in word, all are supposed to be on a basis of equality. It is self-evident, however, that if some Provinces own and control their natural resources and derive large revenues therefrom, while other Provinces are denied such ownership and control the revenues from the natural resources within their bounds go into the Dominion treasury to be shared equally by all Provinces, there is rank inequality. Provinces owning their resources not only obtain all the resultant revenues, but they also get a share from the resources of the other Provinces who do not enjoy such ownership.

In justification for the policy of Dominion retention of ownership and control of the natural resources of the West it was urged that it was in the national interests that these lands should be disposed of as free homesteads, and that inasmuch as the encouragement of immigration was a Federal matter, it was essential to the success of any immigration policy that control of the homestead lands should be vested in the same authority. It was argued that if the Provinces owned the lands they would be compelled to administer them for revenue producing purposes rather than to encourage settlement.

Furthermore, it was contended, the Dominion Parliament was spending huge sums of money annually for immigration purposes solely for the purpose of settling the vacant lands of the West, but that no such service was maintained to add population to the East.

Whatever force there may have been in these arguments at the time, it has all been dissipated now, and has been for some years past. The immigration service of the Dominion Government is exerting itself just as it is to bring settlers to the Western which do not own their lands, as it is to bring settlers to the Western which do no own their lands. Free homestead lands are now practically a thing of the past, and control of the lands remaining, the West and the mines, is not necessary to the success of the Federal immigration policy.

Furthermore, the Dominion today is administering the natural resources of the West for revenue-producing purposes, and the Federal treasury is being substantially increased by the annual surplus of revenue from expenditure from the natural resources of the West.

The net result is that there is not equality in status among the Provinces East and West, and as a consequence there is a weakness in the bond of confederation. The Western Provinces are restricted in their revenues, their development is retarded, and an unnecessary, foolish and even dangerous feeling of resentment is aroused in the West against the East because of the injustice under which the West feels it labors.

Worth of Fish Hatcheries

Huge Quantity of Fry is Distributed In Canadian Lakes.

Fish hatcheries operated by the fisheries branch, Department of Marine and Fisheries, Ottawa, have distributed in 1920 three-fourths of a billion fry, in the various provinces throughout the Dominion. The largest distribution of any one species was in Lake whitefish, of which more than 400,000,000 were released. About half of these were distributed in the Great Lakes and Lake Superior. In Manitoba, Pickerel came second to whitefish. Of this species, 120,000,000 were distributed in the Great Lakes and 25,000,000 in Manitoba. Sockeye salmon, the most valuable of all the Pacific species, came third, with 9,000,000.

Minard's Liniment For Garget In Cows.

Tricky.
"I simply can't understand the combination of my wife's clothes."

"What puzzles you?"
"Well, when she wants to hide anything, she pokes it down her neck, but when she wants to get it again, it's always in her stocking."

A Nasty Crop.
It's easy to plant a mortgage on a farm, but it isn't so easy to raise it.

The most obstinate corn to raise is Holloway's Corn Remover. Try it.

Excellence is Profitable

It Pays the Farmer Every Time to Improve the Quality of His Stock.

Has it paid the farmer to invest in high-priced beef stock? Unfortunately. Has it paid him to invest in the best quality of lamb, seed and implements? Beyond question. Has it paid him to raise the best wool, make the best butter, grow the best fruit, and do the best in farming and dairying generally? Nobody doubts it. We see it in the improved quality of horses, bred from high-priced stock; in superior wool, the result of first-class rams; in the excellent quality of pork, the result of costly improved breeds; in the introduction of high-priced hams and high-priced seed of every kind. With these high-priced help the livestock wealth of the country has become more than double what it otherwise would have been. Since profit is sought in dairying, the butter-making farmers cannot afford to do without that breed of cows which yields the most and the best. They must have the cows that cost the least to keep and return the greatest percentage of butter profit.

The Chinese are truly devotees to cleanliness. Public baths abound, and the poorest citizen bathes usually twice a day.

Absence of horns on Aberdeen Angus and Galloway cattle is due entirely to selective breeding.

Fireproof barrels, made from sugar mill refuse, have been invented.

Newsprint Prices Are Still Rising

An Increase of over 243 Per Cent. Since 1916.

Newsprint prices for the Winnipeg newspapers for the first six months of 1921 have been announced by the paper company which supplies this market.

The price quoted is 7 cents a pound, or $14.00 a ton.

This is an increase of 75 per cent. over the corresponding price for the first six months of 1920.

The increase of $4.00 a ton now announced is alone greater than the total price paid by the Winnipeg newspapers for newsprint as recently as May, 1916.

The price is f.o.b. the mill, and to it the freight rate must be added. The freight now paid by the Winnipeg newspapers from their source of supply is $19.50, as against $10.00 a ton paid four years ago. This will make a total cost laid down of $19.50, as against $4.60 in 1916, an increase of $11.10—or over 243 per cent.

Bolshevists Have Coat-of-Arms

Symbols Used Represent Industry.

The Bolsheviks have adopted a coat-of-arms, the joint work, it is said, of Lenin and Trotsky. It consists of two sheaves of corn joined to form a circle. Inside the circle the sun is shining on a field representing Humanity. In the foreground are a hammer, a symbol of industry; a sickle, signifying intellect; and a sickle, which stands for the peasants.

Between the ends of the sheaves is a flask encircled by a paper band, on which is printed a red lozenge. On the flask, which is the Bolsheviks, is an emblem of silence, is inscribed the legend: "If I am broken my contents will spread all over the world." The higher point of the lozenge represents Idealism, Intellectual, Liberty, Love, and the lower, Matter, Power of Life, Labor and Reason. Around the circle formed by the sheaves is enrolled: "We work in silence for the Liberation of all Humanity."

Honor to a Great Officer.

A grateful tribute has been paid by the Canadian Government to Lord Byng in his appointment to be an honorary general in the Canadian militia. Lord Byng proved himself to be a great soldier when he led the Canadians in the historic drive at Vimy Ridge in April and May, 1917.

Peasants Rise to Power.

The peanut, once the symbol of all that was cheap, has risen in the world and is now classed among the aristocrats in nuts. It is the principal product of twelve of the U.S. States, and in 1918 the peanut crop reached the imposing proportions of 53,000,000 bushels and represented a value of $100,000,000.

Romania Now As Large as Italy

Area Is 105,000 Square Miles. Popu- lation 15,000,000.

Romania emerges from the war enlarged in area and in population. By the award of Bessarabia, confirmed by the Allies in a treaty signed in Paris on October 28, she gains territory which makes her equal to Italy in size, with a population of more than 15,000,000.

No other active belligerent in the war against Germany has varied so much in extent, says the New York Herald. Condemned by the treaty of Bucharest to lose half her territory, she has not only regained her previous domain, but has seen it successively enlarged by the addition of Transylvania, Bokhina, part of the Banat of Temesvar, and, now, Bessarabia.

This makes an area of eight times as large as Alsace-Lorraine, with a population five times that of the restored French provinces. Before the war Romania's area was 53,000 square miles, and her population 7,500,000. Now her area is 105,000 square miles and her population is more than doubled.

A TONIC FOR THE NERVES

The Only Real Nerve Tonic is a Good Supply of Rich, Red Blood.

If people would only attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist. "We doctors would see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous weaklings. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The best oil thing which the specialists speak of is the nervous condition, caused by over-work and the many anxieties of to-day. Sunbathed and relaxed, these tired, lopsided, and unable to keep their minds on anything. And when these hurts like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, and do not sleep well at night. Headaches and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from staying nervous."

Monsieur:

For 15 days in the month of January I was suffering with pain of rheumatism in the toe and heel. I had a remedial nothing did any good. One person told me about MINARD'S LINIMENT; it was soon tried and the Saturday night, the next morning I was feeling very good; could give you a good certificates any time that you would like to have one. If any time I come to hear about any person sick in your neighborhood, I could tell them about this remedy.

Big Drop in Meat Exports

The Decrease Represents a Value of Over $48,000,000.

Exports of meat from Canada for the year ending October show a decrease compared with last year of the large total of 127,829,590 lbs. The decrease represents a value of over $48,000,000 on the year's trade. The export figures for two years, reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, are given as follows: Bacon and ham, 1919, 208,906,038 lbs., 1920, 149,674,000 lbs.; pork, 1919, 18,023,313 lbs., 1920, 12,485,200 lbs.; beef, 1919, 129,944,411 lbs., 1920, 85,916,000 lbs.; canned meats, 1919, 11,398,393 lbs., 1920, 980,458 lbs.

There was an off-set, rather less than a million dollars, in the increase of "other meats" exported, a classification that includes game and poultry.

How Far Does a Fly Fly?

Experiments made by the British Government, last year, brought to light the following facts relating to the habit of the fly. Flies don't travel nearly so far as one is apt to think. Of several hundred caught in a Suffolk village, sprinkled with white powder and released, the one that travelled farthest was found two days later less than a mile away. The bodies of the majority were found within two hundred yards from the place of release. In the open air flies rarely fly more than ten or twelve feet above the ground. On the top floors of a tall office building they had hardly ever seen. In many U.S. skyscrapers flies are absolutely unknown above the first two or three stories.

Plenty of Moose

Moose Are the Most Pleasant of Canada's Big Game.

The moose is by far the most plentiful of our big game animals," writes the chief game warden of Alberta in his annual report, and this despite the fact that man's hunting has gone up 40 per cent. and that there are now 100,000 moose in the forests of big flocks. Throughout the Dominion, it is estimated that from 1,000 to 1,500 moose are killed annually, but the moose is by no means following the trail of the buffalo to extinction. Several splendid specimens have been shot in the north country already this season.

Decline of the Parlor.

One of the large manufacturing companies of the United States is engaged in the construction of a great number of houses for its employees, and while there are many novel features in the way of making conveniences, the most striking thing about the homes is the total absence of the usual parlor. The space is thrown into the other rooms. It looks as if the parlor was out of fashion.

Blairmore, Alta. Thurs. Dec. 16, 1920

Died on Day of His Birthday CelebrationIn our last issue we briefly referred to the sudden death of Samuel Gibeau, and since then we have learned considerable of the particularly sad circumstances surrounding his sudden demise.Samuel had left school about a year ago and went to work for some months with his father at Pelleter's lumber mill just north of the town. But recently he decided to move back to Blairmore, when his father secured employment for himself and his son at Greenhill mine of the West Canadian Coaleries. Sam had been subject to epileptic fits, and his father preferred to bear him during working hours.On Friday morning last Sam came home from his night shift and after a light lunch went to bed. About 2 in the afternoon he was attacked by a fit but soon recovered. Later in the evening he was again taken, when the parents called in the doctor. His condition at this time was more serious than the parents imagined, and the priest was sent for. On the arrival of Father Cosman, Samuel seemed to brighten into semi-consciousness, then he became violent, and never again relapsed until death came.The case is made particularly sad from the fact that he died on the eve set for a trip to Calgary to visit his sister, and that a party had been arranged for, to take place at his home that very Friday evening in honor of his fifteen th birthday, to which a number of his boy chums had been invited.Funeral took place on Monday at 10 a.m. A service of High Funeral Mass and Libera was conducted at St. Anne's church by the Rev. Father Cosman, assisted by Rev. Father McCormick, of Coleman, and the full choir. The new edifice was crowded to the doors with sympathizing acquaintances.The beautiful casket was adorned with scores of wreaths and floral tributes, contributed as follows: from boy friends, fellow workmen, Messrs. Nicholas, Peplow, Rahal, Mr. and Mrs. H. Burns,
Mr. and Mrs. Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. I. Dutil, Mr. and Mrs. Kafoury,
Mr. Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. Dorathy,
Misses Olin and Rhoda McLaren,
The Business Men, Mrs. Gabor, Blairmore School, Misses Ennis
and Thibadeau, Lindsay Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Watson and the Gibeau family. Masses were contributed by Rev. Father Cosman, Mrs. McLaughlin, Mr. P. J. O'Neill,
Mr. D. M. J. Conway, Mr. and Mrs.
G. Green (5), Mrs. Bond, Mrs.
Elwin, C. J. Tompkins and family
(2), Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gillis (2),
Mr. P. V. Bedoir (2), Mr. and Mrs.
Michael Murphy (2), Mr. and Mrs.
L. Morgan, and the Choir.Mr. and Mrs. Gibeau desire to thank all friends for kindness and sympathy shown in various ways.

journeyed to Lethbridge on Saturday last to pay a special return visit to Lethbridge lodges.Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas and family, of Montana, were visiting relatives in Cowley recently and have gone to Ontario. Mrs. Nicholas will be remembered as Miss Kate Carney.Robert Littleton has returned from his deer hunt in the mountains.
He reports seeing nothing at that line during the trip. Dick Alexander had the good luck to bring a deer back with him.The death occurred on Sunday morning of Russell Sleigher, son of Mr. H. Sleigher, at the home of J. V. Robertson at Tennessee.
Funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at the Cowley cemetery.The lecture to have been given here by Professor Cameron, of Edmonton, on Wednesday evening, was postponed on account of his being ill and not able to fill the appointment.cess and it is to be hoped they come again. Bill Coleky was the shining light of the affair, trying to imitate the good old days of Michel and Homer; but when is the orchestra going to speculate on some new music?Owing to the mild weather we have had no curling being done, but all the same the fans are getting their skates sharpened and Eaton's are kept busy supplying orders for hockey shoes. It is said that the membership fee for curling is pretty high. "Phew, it's warm, isn't it?"Dominick Marshall has opened the old store of W. Ward's, next to P. Burns & Co., and last used by the G. W. V. A. He intends to run a lunch counter and also give boxing lessons. A few years ago Dominick used to be pretty good with the mites when around Farns.
As we have one or two budding aspirants for the game in Hillcrest, there is a chance that Dempsey Carpenter may be induced to come this way for successors.

Love of The Wild

BY —
ARCHIE P. MCKISHNIE
Printed by Special Arrangements with Thos. Allen, Toronto, Ont.

For an hour and a half after Boy had gone, Paisley worked fast and furiously, setting a trap for a mink. A cat job for him, but the mink-trap was particularly a diminutive log-house with a narrow ground-door and a well-built roof of tough, heavy timbers, strong enough to hold a horse. From the outside, it was as though a bear from without. When-pen number one was finished, Paisley stood back and commanding.

"Putty good trap, that," he said, "and the mink will be the catch of most Bushwhackers." "Don't be all how foolish a turkey is, now! Just think of 'em follerin' up a trail, or beech-nuts or chaff and enterin' that trap, and then comin' back down and findin' the 'em's inside, not green the door they went in by at all."

He laughed quietly and felt for his pipe.

"Just as soon as they find you're trapped, up goes their heads and they're set to work, but the mink after that, The screamer a turkey is, the higher up goes its head. I'll bet my winter's tobaccoe—that this trap is good for five at least."

He sat down on a log and lit his pipe.

"Well, well," he sighed, "what'll Boy and Big Mac do without that little mother? What'll they do?"

He lit another pipe and took a short pipe, and then sprang up and gripped his ax again. Then he stood still, looking away through the woods with unseeing eyes.

"That's what it is," he said huskily. "What she don't know."

He tramped slowly onward and found another slope on a narrow ridge.

"I'll build the other three close in here," he told himself, and started to work.

It was past noon when the traps were finished. Then Paisley, wiping his face with his hand, lay down, tramped slowly toward McTavish's. Above him was the old gold of late autumn. Around him the trees, the red, the yellow, the orange, and cock of the woods. Here and there a yellow splash of sunshined fell through the trees and painted golden patches upon the dead leaves, and Paisley saw or heard none of this. He kept repeating in his mind the question:

"What'll she do?—what'll little Green do?"

As Paisley was about to leave the timber for the path along the creek, his acute ear caught the sound of a paddle dipping the water lightly, and peering through the trees he saw two men in a skiff strike the shore and glance stealthily about them.

Paisley's eyes narrowed and his heavy jaw set.

As Paisley's steps sounded, the teacher's steps sounded his Saturday hottest. "What's this?" he demanded. "Well, I'm waitin' here to see just what he's goin' to do, and learn who that big man is with."

The men in the skiff stood up and, stepping ashore, pulled the boat up after them.

Bill Paisley's muscles began to bunch beneath his deer-skin jacket. It was with the greatest difficulty that he restrained himself from launching forth and giving the visitors a lesson. But he held himself in check, feeling that he might learn something of far more value to his friends and himself than the gratification of desire would prove.

The men were speaking in hushed accents, but the bushman's ear caught every word. As he listened his big hands clenched and his blue eyes darkened.

"It won't do to go up too close, I tell you, Watson." Simpson was hasty, but with the greatest difficulty that he restrained himself from launching forth and giving the visitors a lesson. But he held himself in check, feeling that he might learn something of far more value to his friends and himself than the gratification of desire would prove.

"Bah!" jeered the other; "scared, eh? You got a lot of yellow in you. Simpson."

"You needn't talk," said the school-teacher reddening. "It was worse than mere cowardice that got you into this skiff. I'm trying to get you out of it. And now, if I don't say any more of your gibles or I'll let you go to thunder and get out of the thing the best way you can."

"Oh, say now, will the other with a forced laugh, this won't do any boy. We mustn't quarrel, you and I. Remember, the Colonels to give you your price if we can grab her to-night. We'll have no horses across in Two Elm swale yonder, and get her away."

before these idiots surprise anything." Simpson shuddered.

"See here, Watson," he said, "I guess you understand I'm not doing this for you. I'm doing it for the girl. If we pull that thing off to-night, I'm away and she goes with me."

Watson laughed disconsolately.

"I'll tell you, I don't blame you for not wanting to stay here. I'm not healthy for you. All we want you to do before you go is to help us get hold of the girl, and of course it's understandin' that you're comin'."

The two turned down the path, and Paisley lay low and let them pass. Then he plunged into the wood. As the plotters warily turned the bend, the girl, who had been unexpectedly unexpected, Paisley, was suddenly sauntering in the opposite direction.

"You gent got a pass?" he asked, laying his rifle on the ground.

"No, sir," replied Watson, "and what's more, we don't want one."

"Oh, you don't, eh? Well, then, you had better both get."

He pointed across the creek and Watson's purple face flushed a deeper shade.

"Look here," he commanded, "we're your friends. We want to do you Bushwhacker's favor. Is this any way to treat us?"

"We're not needin' friends," returned Paisley. "Now, you chaps get while you're able to walk."

"We'll go when we're ready, not before," he said, agent, putting him on the defensive.

Paisley's long right arm shot forward and Watson's purple form exploded a hand somewhere in the moss. Simon stood by, but Paisley's hand gripped him by the windpipe.

"You must learn your lesson, too, eh?" he said grimly, and sent the teacher to earth with a straight left that sent him sprawling.

Paisley struggled erect with a groan.

"You're broken my arm," he moaned. "You'll pay for this. Nobody can assault Thomas W. O. Watson with impunity, sir. —When Colonel Halliburton has you Bushwhacker's cornered you will need me, and what if I should remember this—this assault?"

"We're not afraid of Colonel Halliburton," said Paisley quietly. "If Halliburton comes we'll be within—understand? Now, you fellers better be gettin' across to your own territory, 'cause I fed the mules swill again."

Simpson straightened and, followed by the bruised Watson, lost no time in obeying the order. Paisley watched them go, then turned his back on the farther shore hid them from sight, then he picked up his rifle and walked up after them.

"The 'fools,'" he muttered, "they don't know that I'm on to their game. The fool thinks they can even get a glass away from me. I see that Watson's face before once, but I can't just say where. I reckon he won't ever forget old Bill Paisley's face, though. No, I won't say nothing to Bill; not now. Guess most too hot-headed to meet them devils at their own game."

As he reached the bend in the path he saw the face of the old teacher to his ear, and his hand from an old woman passed him. Her hair was flying in the breeze, her piteous face worked, and her black onyx gleamed.

"Old Bill, get us as sure as you can," exclaimed Paisley. "It's the first time I ever seen her out durin' day."

"She sure come from McTavish's way, too. What's what's up? Guess I'll have to tell 'em."

Half an hour later he entered McTavish's door. He was seated by the table, and he leaped up when Bill entered, a letter, a hat, Bill," he cried in answer to the big man's look. "Old Betsy was here, Bill, and she gave me something to drink, and—"

His voice faltered, and he turned toward Glass, who had come from the door.

"You tell Bill all about it," he said, and walked out.

Paisley looked at the girl and men, then at the letter, a hat, Bill," he cried in answer to the big man's look. "Old Betsy was here, Bill, and she gave me something to drink, and—"

His voice faltered, and he turned toward Glass, who had come from the door.

"You tell Bill all about it," he said, and walked out.

Glass was dressed in a homespun jacket of deer-skin, but it was the wild beauty of her face with its glorious coloring and great flame-like eyes that Paisley saw. Remembering what he had last heard, he knew she was a great, strong, supple—though the man. The girl noticed his working face, and she came over to him.

"Bill," she said, "I've known you ever since I can remember, and never saw you ever lookin' at me the way you do now. You sick, Bill?"

"Glossie," said Paisley, "I want to tell you something. You're not to go outside this house, but I'll tell you what you know old Bill, and he knows something you don't know. You tell me right now that you won't go outside, Glossie."

The girl looked at him quickly, then she removed her hat, and he saw her hair, her breath and her color rising.

"Glossie," said Bill slowly, "you ain't got nothing to be scared over—but don't you forget we've around me now. Glossie, tell me about the man."

"Why, Bill," tried the girl, "it was all so unexpected. Aunties was all right. We all thought she was."

"She caught her breath and clinched her slender hands, her color rising.

Slaves to a Select Diet

BY LORETTO C. LYNCH

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

I have had a visitor, a boy of twelve. Dear boy, too. The kind of a boy who can do little things for you and whistle and fly kites, and he generally nice—until it comes to eating. And this boy's diet is so limited that it is hard work to cook for him.

“Knick.” Not a bit of it. But the poor boy has been permitted to grow used to eating just a few of the more expensive foods. And no matter how tasty may be some of the cheaper dishes nor how attractively you prepare them, the boy is polite but quite firm in his refusal to so much as try them.

And the boy is worth writing about because there are so many more of him. And the boy and girl of his kind is grown up, the boarder who picks the boarding house charging a fair board and then grumbles because so many things are served that are “ineatable.”

And the boy is the unhappy traveler who, because he cannot get the few foods he knew at home, dashes the land of milk and honey. Sometimes this boy, grown, expects steaks and chops from his wife daily when he provides only a beef-steak income. He is the boy in the Army and Navy who feels abused when he receives wholesome meals well planned from a dietary standpoint and properly prepared because only now and then do they give him of the few foods to which he has limited himself.

One of the first signs of advice is, do not let this sort of thing happen. No child likes new foods always the first time these are presented to him. And the same is true of grown-ups. But the housewife who would use the world's available food supply to advantage will make an effort to introduce at least one new dish a week into the diet. Make half the recipe. Sometimes a small serving is more conducive to liking than a larger portion.

There are some housewives who think this a meal without a potato is really not a meal. Yet these same women are often surprised to find that their families welcome steamed rice with carefully prepared tomato sauce when perchance they are dining out.

My little visitor did not come for me to discipline in the way of what was good for him to eat. And, of course, courtesy dictated that I try to please him. But he ate only steak, chops, potatoes, white bread, butter, peas, corn, and a few rich desserts. There was no green vegetable, or in fact any vegetable, other than peas and corn that he would eat. Fruit, too, and eggs and cereals and milk he had to like for, although he would take milk in cocoa or a rich dessert.

Yet had he not been a guest, I had been trained for a few weeks, I feel sure that through starvation he could have been induced to taste the golden apple sauce or the luscious baked apple or the nice, fat raisins and other delicious fruits.

And when he became hungry enough I feel any the world would have eaten a slice of boiled turnip, with its tender carrots and boiled onions. And, possibly, if we might very little bright red jam on the thinly sliced brown bread, he would have had a change from brown bread as well as a simple, attractive dessert.

Not Traditional

The report that a sailor of a South Sea island has “willed” all his wives to a Yankee sailor indicates that his majesty was not informed about the traditions of sailors, whose way is said to be to scatter their wives rather than to concentrate them in one port.—D. T. Free Press.

A Kidney Remedy

Kidney troubles are frequently caused by badly digested food which overtaxes these organs to eliminate the “irritant acids formed.” Help comes in the form of a tea made from the bark of the Root, sold as Mother Neige's Carike Syrup; and your kidney disorder will promptly disappear. The Eternal Question

Growth of the Livestock Industry

Tolmie Praises Work of Cleaning Up Mange Areas on the Prairies.

Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, has addressed a complimentary banquet given to him by 150 employees of the federal department of agriculture in Ontario, spoke highly of the work being done by the employees of his department.

Speaking of the importance and responsibility of protecting the health of the livestock of Canada, Dr. Tolmie estimated the total value of the livestock at two billion dollars.

Great credit was given the employees in the department who had succeeded in cleaning up the mange area in Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan during the past summer.

British control of Canadian bacon on sale in England was deprecated by Dr. Tolmie, who said efforts were being made to have the control removed.

Canadian bacon was in keen demand in the old country and was being used to help sell American bacon, which was not of the same high quality.

The minister explained the injustice Canada suffered by the British embargo on Canadian cattle.

Currency Scarce in Africa.

Currency has become so scarce in some parts of Africa that people have returned to bartering almost exclusively, and church offerings have to be brought in produce instead of coin. This often results in some confusion, as when chickens escape from their owners before the offering is taken. At one communion service in the Elst Mission seventeen people were required to bring in the collection.

HOLY GEE, MY HEAD FEELS GOOD TO-DAY!

Pain Over Eyes Is Gone, Headache Cured, Cataract Relieved!

This is the Common Experience of Those Who Breathe the Vapor of Catarrhzone

Promising this, Catarrhzone can never be carried over, cured by a nostril spray, a spray, or tablet treatment. Troubles caused by cataract should quickly be overcome, and medicines, drop into the stomach, and do likewise but have digestion. It's different with Catarrhzone—so certain against the scourge of heat goods in transit or her bank balances in this country would yield but a trifling compensation, to say nothing of the fact that it would presumably lead to a counter-seizure of British property in Germany. If Germany deliberately defaults, the Allies will have to consider much more serious measures such as a complete boycott.

Tests on Alberta Coal

Government Industrial Research Council to Conduct Experiments.

Alberta coal tests covering a wide range of scientific investigation and research will be undertaken by the government's industrial research council and the university next year, and to make preliminary arrangements for the work, Edgar Stensfeld, who has been secured as chemical engineer for the government, is now in Edmonton. Just when the experimentation is to take place has not yet been decided, but Mr. Stensfeld is discussing the matter with the government and university authorities with a view to the arranging for the installation of the necessary plant and testing apparatus and to determine the precise nature of the work to be first undertaken.

Reparation by Germany.

To British eyes Germany can make reparation on a large scale only if she is allowed, and even at the outset advised, to re-establish her foreign policy. If she may further than Germany makes a deliberate lead, it will probably be upon a scale against which the scourge of heat goods in transit or her bank balances in this country would yield but a trifling compensation, to say nothing of the fact that it would presumably lead to a counter-seizure of British property in Germany. Commutation of Pensions Privilege Extended to Canadian Veterans Is Availed of to Great Extent.

The privilege extended to Canadian veterans of commuting their pensions when their disability was over than 15 per cent has been availed of to a great extent. To Nov. 30, it is stated by officials of the Pensions Commission, 12,810 pensioners had availed of the commutation of their pensions. The amount involved to be paid over to the men so commuting their pensions, would be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000.

Under the amendments to the act made last session, any pensioner having a disability between five per cent and 14 per cent, was allowed to commute his pension, receiving a lump sum, dependent upon the amount of disability, rather than a small sum monthly. It was estimated that about 20,000 pensioners were entitled to commutation.

Judicial Courtesy.

First Autolist—I thought you said if I were sociable with the judge I could get off?

Second Autolist—Were you?

First Autolist—Yes. I said “Good morning, Judge, how are you today?” and he replied, “Fine—twenty-five dollars.”—Judge.

Alcohol as a Motor Fuel.

Alcohol is not suitable for use in existing types of high-speed internal combustion engines, such as are used in motor cars, but mixed with an equal part of benzol it forms an excellent fuel for this purpose.

General Semenoff, former leader of the anti-Bolshevik forces along the frontier between Siberia and Mongolia, has arrived in Port Arthur, Manchuria, where it is expected he will find asylum. Gen. Semenoff gave up the struggle against the Bolsheviks when his men, defeated by the Soviet hordes, deserted in great numbers.

USE SLOAN'S TO WARD OFF PAIN

You can just tell by its healthy stimulating odor that it is good, good, good.

I only had some Sloan's Liniment. How often you've said that! And then when the rheumatic twinge subsided—after a few minutes—

I don't do it again—get a bottle today and keep it handy for possible use tonight. A sudden attack may come on you at any time. It relieves the backache, stiff joints, neuralgia, the pains and aches resulting from exposure. You soon find yourself in a better condition. This is the best pain-killer without rubbing. Of Local and General Interest

Crows' Nest Encampment, I.O.O.F., will hold their annual ball in the Hotel Cassidy at the opera house tonight.

A grand masquerade dance will be given in Tuskin's hall at 8 o'clock on January the 7th, under auspices of the Cowley baseball club.

A grand dance will be given in the Union hall at Hillcrest on the night of Christmas Eve, the proceeds of which are to benefit Joe Brown a miner who has been incapacitated for work for over seven years.

The annual dance to be given by the high school at the opera house on the night of January the 7th promises to be a real successful and enjoyable affair. Tickets are now selling. Proceeds in aid of school athletic funds.

Dr. Hoyt and Murdoch McLeod, of Cranbrook, were at the Cosmopolitan hotel for a few days this week, prepared to test and repair defective eyes and sight. A peculiar coincidence: at one time during Wednesday no less than seven autos stood around the hotel with shattered lamps and two others with no lamps at all.

In 1919 there were 3,733 small delivery routes in Canada serving 186,367 rural mail boxes.

Mrs. Alice, estranged to Mr. McLeod, is estranged to Canada, her by forest fire.

Fred Gavolin has recovered from injuries received in the mine recently and is back to work again.

We understand that the little dispute between the Hillcrest school board and the teaching staff has been amicably settled and Miss Loveland has been reinstated.

So far we have not had sufficient frost to make skating, and Emperor Pick promises that if elected a councillor he will immediately take the matter up with the attorney-general.

A special meeting of the Pass branch of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance was held on Monday evening last for the purpose of considering the salaries schedule. Twenty-three members were present.

Joe Grafton has returned from a visit to the B.C. fruit districts. He is somewhat sunburnt, the result, he claims, of several days spent in Fernie while the election campaign was at its height.

Prayer for a Preacher

A celebrated revivalist came to address his flock, and before he began to speak the pastor said: "Brother Jones, before you begin this discourse, there are some powerful-lad negroes in the here congregation, and I want to pray for you," which he did in this fashion:

"O Lord, give Brother Jones the eye of the eagle, that he may see sin from afar. Give his ear to the gospel telephone and connect him with the central skies. Illuminate his brow with a brightness that will make the fire of hell look like a tallow candle. Nail his hands to the cross, and bind his head in stone limestone valley, so long as myer is much wanted to be sold, and mortal film all over with the kerogen oil of my salvation and set him afire." - U. S. Congregational Record.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson were up from Pincher Station on Monday, to attend the funeral of their nephew, Samuel Gibbons.
